Administration Stresses

The course of your life will be very much determined by what you do and the decisions you make. We hope you will think of the immediate past with gratitude and appreciation for what you learned and gained from it, and we pray that you might think of the future with a purpose in mind and with resolution in your heart.

Sources of victory are in the work of preparation. By completing your basic education, you have laid the foundation for future victories in life. You shall owe much of your life's future success to the years of study and preparation in this school system. The battle of life is won the day before. The opportunities for learning have been provided for you in many ways. If you have taken advantage of these opportunities, you have reached the first major milestone of your life.

Your yesterdays make you what you are today, and your decisions today will shape your tomorrow.

Self–Development

The administration presented another side of the high school. As they coped with the needs of an expanding school, Principal Robert Shields and Vice-Principals George Bauman and Raymond Williamson shouldered the responsibilities for the leadership of the school. Handling each problem with the utmost care, they were able to keep the school running smoothly and efficiently.

Special Education Classes Fulfill Individual Needs

"The West Springfield Human Development Program is based on the philosophy that all students have talents and interests which will enable them to become adjusted, productive, and contributing members of their community." This government sponsored program, now in its third year, is directed by Mr. Donald Synder.

Students from West Springfield and surrounding communities are given academic training as well as vocational guidance during their high school years. Various equipment found in hospitals, hotels, nursing homes, restaurants, and the like are employed to familiarize the student with their uses.

Government Sponsors New Economics Program

A new economics program under the direction of Mr. C. David Crosier and Mr. John Mehegan was initiated in August 1967. This government sponsored project is designed to overcome "economic illiteracy" on the kindergarten to the twelfth grade level. The classes will be integrated into the present social studies system.

Teachers must be instructed in the various methods of injecting economic terms and ideas into their present curriculum. It is hoped that in future years, an economics course will be mandatory on either the junior or senior level.

History Seminar Stimulates Individual Achievement

Twenty seniors qualified to enter the history honors course which was divided into two small classes. The result was an increase in student-teacher discussions and debates in each class as well as between classes. During the year, the student's time was equally divided between study sessions in the library and class discussions.

According to Mr. George Bozenhard, chairman of the department, the seminar was designed to familiarize the student with concepts and skills beyond the high school level.

The Science Department initiated a team teaching program in physics which involved four senior classes. Each week students participated in three periods of informal discussion led by Mr. Manning Case, science coordinator for the school system, and four periods of laboratory work under the supervision of Mr. Francis Crane and Mr. Robert Zemba. The wall between rooms 11 and 12 was pushed back on discussion days to make room for two classes at a time.

The laboratory classes were held in assigned rooms. Students were given a particular objective and the necessary equipment and then left on their own. This procedure created an experimental atmosphere.

Reps And Bankers Serve Homeroom Students

Each Tuesday morning, the students' money is collected, counted, and deposited into the bank by the homeroom bankers. These students learn and practice the clerical methods of a responsible banker. Miss Jean Kelliher is the adviser to the bankers.

This year, our homeroom representatives have participated in many helpful ways, such as collecting class dues, selling student activity tickets, distributing TERRIER TIMES, and keeping their respective homerooms informed of the actions of the Student Council. Senior members also measured their homeroom members for caps and gowns.

Produce School Publications

The fifteen members of the yearbook staff began work in April, 1967. The designing of layouts and the writing of heads, copy and captions comprised the daily working hours of the Journalism II class. With the addition of two new sections, the index and senior directory, the TERRIER '68 will be the largest edition ever published.

As a money raising project to defray expenses, the yearbook staff sold pictures that had accumulated from past years.

Co-editors-in-chief Kathy Dziedzic and Robin Lodi work with advisor Mr. Peter Connors in making final checks on completed yearbook pages.

The Seniors–The Final Side Of The Class

With their final "first day," the class of 1968 entered upon a hectic senior year. The pace slackened once and for all with "Pomp and Circumstance," leaving the seniors time for reflection.

Their history as sophomores in the high school began with apprehensive enthusiasm. They launched their first enterprise by selling Christmas cards to finance the Mock Prom. Following this came the production "Arsenic and Old Lace," their contribution to the inter-class plays.

The construction was completed, and they moved into their junior year. This was a time of unique happenings; new classrooms, new pool, and new faces. Upon receiving their rings, they gained a feeling of belonging. "Al' Di' La," the Junior-Senior prom, was the culmination of all their efforts and enthusiasm.

Their senior year was the beginning of the end. It was filled with privileges, anticipations and rewards, yielding to that major step towards the future. The doors have now closed, the old familiar faces are gone, and they have left West Springfield High School behind them.

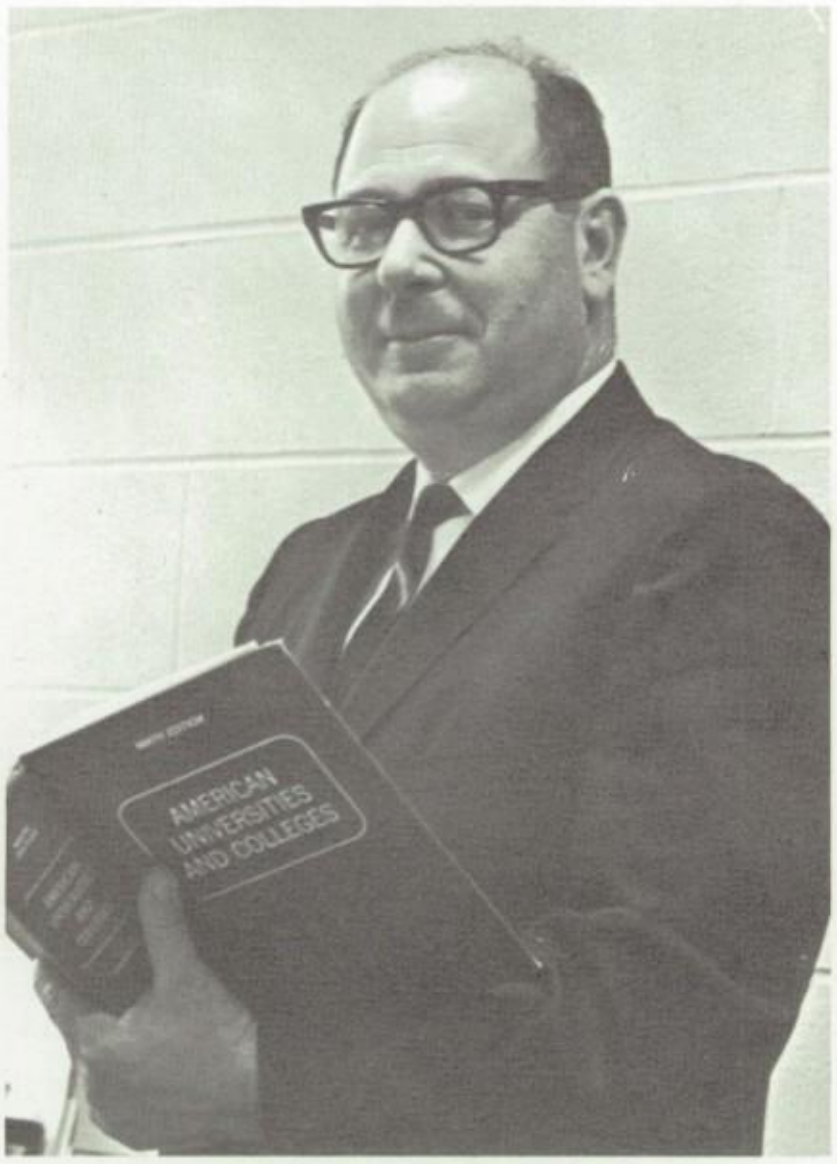
Of 1968



Mr. Milton Laufer has directed the class of 1968 with wise counsel during the three years in the high school.

Officers Kevin Gureckis, president; Donna Kilgallen, vice-president; Carolee DeVito, secretary; and Nancie Larivee, treasurer joined the Executive Committee in sponsoring several spirit and fund-raising activities. The most notable were the car wash held in the A & P Parking Lot Sunday afternoon, November 12, and a bake sale held in the school cafeteria the following Friday. Together these ventures netted over $150 for the class.

The Jr.-Sr. Prom was held May 6 at the High Point Inn. General chairman Kevin Gureckis termed the affair a total success.

The Mock Prom Planning Committee was picked early in January. The Mock Prom, a sophomore tradition for many years, went under the theme of Vieni Sul Mar. The various committees worked long hours on decorations, lighting, music and refreshments, but their efforts were rewarded as a fine crowd turned out for the occasion.

Class adviser Mr. Russell T. Bird frequently lent his experience as problems and questions were discussed. In May, the juniors-to-be ordered their class rings, which they will receive in September and October.

The TERRIER '68 staff would like to thank the following people for their assistance: Mr. Donald Lendry, American Yearbook Representative; Mr. Brooks R. Johnson, Brooks Photography, Inc.; Mr. Henry Kozloski, faculty photographer; James Johnson, student photographer; Mr. Raymond Williamson, vice-principal; Mrs. Kenneth Ballard, art department; Mr. Charles M. Schultz; and Mr. Peter T. Connors, yearbook adviser.

Keeping with our theme of "the many sides" of West Springfield High, the yearbook staff adopted a new format on the progressive side. We have developed a permanent record of those who participated in the 1967–1968 academic year in the student and personnel index. Senior identifications have been listed in the Senior Directory for the purpose of making a more sophisticated layout. If TERRIER '68 has accomplished its purpose—to capture the many faces, organizations and activities of our school—the efforts of the year will have been worthwhile.
